

2/4/31 9:49pm – First Message

Classes switched to online due to suggested health restrictions by W.H.O., so now I barely have to go outside (except for work). Still, gives me plenty of time to work on my website which, as you can see, is finally up and running! Thought this would be a fun way of keeping myself busy while everyone is either doing DIY projects at home or panic buying all the tissue, water, and hand sanitizer at the store; Saw a video of people rushing a pallet of Germ-X like someone dropped a buffalo wing in a piranha tank).

2/11/31 8:21pm – Second Message\Update

Still here and making updates to the website (now with picx!!!). Also, still doing virtual these days and stores are starting to run low a bit (haven't been able to buy freeze dried gummy bears or good toilet paper all week). CDC made a broadcast about the disease recently. Apparently, it's airborne with the potential of being spread through respiratory droplets, direct contact, and contaminated surfaces. Adding hand sanitizer to my wishlist